

SEEK MEMBERS FOR SONS CONFEDERATE VETERANS

Chapters of U. D. C. Throughout State Co-Operate in Movement.

Chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy throughout Virginia, at the solicitation of Carl Hinton, adjutant-in-chief and chief of staff, Sons of Confederate Veterans, are co-operating in the work of securing new members for the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Petersburg Daughters have notified Mr. Hinton that they propose to secure 500 new members for the local post of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, which is greatly active. Radford, Bristol, Roanoke, News, Lexington, Staunton, Pineapple, South Boston and Lynchburg, Stonewall Jackson camp of Richmond, took in fifty new members at the meeting last Friday.

Dr. W. G. Galloway, of Wilmington, N. C., commander of the Northern Army of Virginia, has offered $100 in gold to the Camp of Sons that has the largest number of delegates present at Richmond during the reunion.

"I have never seen such a demand for rooms this far ahead of the reunion as is now being made," said Mr. Hinton yesterday. "I have a request to secure sixteen rooms for a party of forty coming from Texas. This is only one of the many requests I am receiving, and the hotels are all practically reserved, so there will have to be considerable doubling up if the crowds are given adequate accommodation."

RECALLS STATE'S PAST IN LETTER TO FRIEND

can win a Virginian's esteem rightly, he must be a real man.

When the Spanish-American war began, wasn't our own dear Flitz, Hugh Lee at his post in Cuba, and didn't he become a major-general in the United States Army or in the United States Volunteers or something? Somehow he was there, right where he ought to have been.

It was the same way, only a more marked extent, May Anne, during the world war. You may talk about the Twenty-ninth Division, but where were the Twenty-ninth and the Eightieth? Wilson bet on 'em and Pershing gambled on 'em. And those "free lancers" who went with the regulars, the marines and other outfits—aren't many of them ensigns now? And Americans as the nation's best in time of war?

My goodness! Mary Anne, it's after midnight, and here I am still bragging to you about Virginia! I am sure John Smith would have done it for Virginia, but I can imagine Miles Standish transferring such a mission to John Alden. Oh, I didn't mean that, of course, Mary Anne, I would stay up any time of night to write to you.

Just a few more lines, Mary Anne. It's a real coincidence that they choose May 22 to 28 for the Virginia Pageant.

It was May 22, 1607, when Newport and Smith discovered the falls of the James, where Richmond is now situated and, as I have said, it was in 1622 that the dreadful massacres took place. And I was in Capitol Square today. It is one of the most beautiful spots in the city, and it would be a shame if they built the new state office building in the southeast corner. But that is one of the many digressions I have made. In Capitol Square there are beautiful trees. Many of them were set out, hear by Colonel John W. Richardson and many were not. Anyway, they are beautiful and, Mary Anne, they're full leaf.

Fall is here, that means anything to you, Mary Anne. Oh, except you aren't from Virginia and that all the poetry of your soul was poured out in "Evangeline," "Hiawatha," "The Courtship of Miles Standish." Pardon me, that, too, is a digression.

But it is a very vital matter with me. Full leaf in Capitol Square means to me, at this time, full leaf in Virginia history. From budding time until now, Mary Anne, the powdered product in 1922 we will picture it to you in the wonderful pageant we will present May 22 to 28. It will show developments from John Smith to Woodrow Wilson.

Lights out, Mary Anne, I must go to bed. Write me soon and tell me what you think of our pageant, as I have outlined it to you.

With lots of love, I am, Your devoted cousin and law partner, Hon. James A. Seddon.

"It will be remembered that Mr. Seddon had been a member of Congress from Virginia, and one of the representatives of Virginia in the Peace Congress held January 15, 1861, in Washington, and later became Secretary of War of the Confederate States of America. A few years before the war Mr. Seddon removed to Sabot Hill, and this residence again changed hands. Lewis J. Crenshaw of the Crenshaw family, a son of Mr. Seddon, the ex-congressman, has sold it to the city of Richmond for $10,000. The city furnished it to the extent of $8,000, and tendered it to President Davis when the Confederate capital was removed hither. He declined to receive it, and only consented to occupy it on the condition that full rent should be paid, which was done by the Confederate government, June 16, 1861.

Federals Took Possession.

"At the evacuation of Richmond on April 3, 1865, the United States military, under General Godfrey Weitzel, took possession of the President's house for their headquarters, and held it until September 5, 1870, when it was restored to the city. During these five years Virginia was held under martial law, and only "District No. 1." In 1871 the house was converted into a public school building known as the Central School.

"For this Memorial purpose, from the Hollywood Memorial Association a new society was organized on May 26, 1890, and on May 31, 1890, was chartered under the name of the Confederate Memorial Literary Society.

On December 8, 1890, Colonel John R. Cary, a member of the Board of Alternates, introduced a resolution for an appropriation for a new school, and the delivery of the Confederate White House to the Confederate Memorial Literary Society for the use of a museum and a library as soon as the school was ready.

On January 5, 1891, this ordinance was passed by the Common Council.

This building has been restored to the appearance and condition in which it was when used by President Davis, except that it is now fireproof and steam heated."
